

Identity and diversity of tropical climate for quality wine production in the world

Jorge Tonietto

Zoneamento Vitivinícola/Indicações Geográficas, Embrapa Uva e Vinho, Rua Livramento, 515
95700-000 - Bento Gonçalves, RS, Brasil.

Email: tonietto@cnpuv.embrapa.br

Abstract

The presentation will focus in the characterization of the tropical climate in different regions in the viticulture for wine production. Some elements of identity of this type of climate will be presented, also comparing with the traditional viticultural producer regions with temperate climates around the world. In other analysis, we will explore the wide variability of the tropical climate in producer regions of the world as an element of diversity that amplifies the potential to produce different quality and typical wines in the tropics.